Rehabilitation of wounded soldiers

Over the past six months, the Nazareth Rehabilitation Center has provided rehabilitation services to 15 soldiers.

This program includes

- psychological rehabilitation
- elements of physical treatment
- accommodation and meals

Through our holistic approach, we aim to support the recovery and well-being of these brave individuals as they transition back to civilian life.

Archbishop Kir Yaroslav (Pryriz)

"It is important that people are not left alone with stress. We are ready to provide comprehensive and effective psychological support for those who are going through difficult moments".

Psychological rehabilitation

We continue to provide psychological and spiritual support to soldiers receiving treatment in community hospitals or on rotations.

Every week, we host sessions for groups of military personnel, offering them the opportunity to speak with psychologists and spiritual counselors, hear testimonials from rehabilitated individuals, and improve their morale.

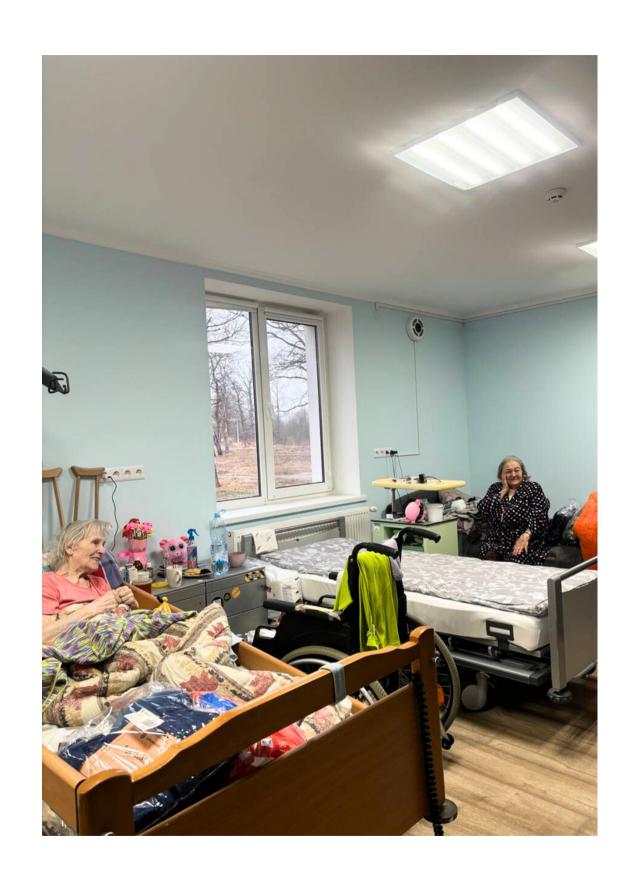

Days of spiritual restoration

Recently, we have also begun hosting groups for wives and mothers whose husbands/sons have fallen on the frontlines.

We offer accessible psychological support, including counseling and therapy, to help these women process their grief and strengthen their emotional resilience.
